

The Client asks the Server to connect, if the Lobby is full the Server refuses the connection, otherwise it asks the player for a username, then shows him the available totems and then establishes the connection